FOUR FISHERMEN DIE IN FANAD HEAD ACCIDENT.

One body and smashed boat washed ashore.

IN THE WORST TRAGEDY along the Donegal coast for more than thirty years four fishermen are presumed to have lost their lives when their small fishing vessel was smashed against the Fanad Head on Saturday morning.

Alarms were raised around 9 o'clock on Saturday morning when the men, including two brothers of a well-known fishing family, failed to return. A search got under way, in which a helicopter joined, found the body of one of the men on the shore of Fanad Head. The smashed boat was found washed up on the rocks out to sea near the point.

A great tragedy

When the body of James Browne was recovered it was found that it was completely smashed. The body was found near the causeway on Fanad Head. The other two brothers, James and Alex, were also presumed dead but their bodies were never found. A search for the three brothers continues.

EXPERIENCED BOATSMEN

Some of the men were experienced boatmen. James Browne, who was a well-known skipper, had been fishing for many years. He was a member of the local sailing club and had been involved in many sea rescues. His brother, Alex, was also an experienced fisherman and had been involved in many fishing trips. The third brother, James, was a young boy, but he had been involved in many fishing trips.

A GREAT TRAGEDY

SAYS CORONER

At an inquest on the body of James Browne held at Downpatrick, the Coroner, Mr. J. O'Connell, said that he was of the opinion that the three men had lost their lives in the accident. He said that the bodies had been found completely smashed and that it was not possible to determine the cause of death. The Coroner said that the bodies had been found completely smashed and that it was not possible to determine the cause of death.
